Introducing CitraTest® 4.0, the World's Only End-To-End Application Response Management Solution with Full Support for Every Application and Every Protocol.

Chelmsford, Massachusetts, July 28, 2003 – Tevron® today announced version 4.0 of CitraTest®, a revolutionary and cost effective End-To-End Application Performance Management Solution with full support for every application and every protocol. Because CitraTest® actually replicates the real user experience, the overall application response times are the most accurate in the industry.

Through intelligent test script logic or simple interactive recordings, CitraTest® directly interacts with the target application like a real user would by dynamically analyzing the entire desktop for uniquely defined images (i.e. menu items, buttons, icons, windows, etc.), issuing keyboard output, and issuing mouse activity. Any activity a user can do can be automated and monitored with unmatched accuracy.

“Because CitraTest® is completely independent of the application it is monitoring, for the first time, every application across the enterprise can be monitored with one cost effective solution. Service Level Agreements can now be enforced automatically with ease. The days in which organizations have to pay BTO vendors a licensing fee for each application and each protocol they need to monitor are over. Through the use of CitraTest, organizations now have one all encompassing solution with one licensing fee that can monitor any and every application in the enterprise. This includes legacy applications, client server applications, web applications, Citrix or Terminal Server hosted applications, terminal emulation...every application. This is truly an industry first and fills a major void within the industry”, explains Jay Labadini, Vice President of Business Development at Tevron.
