Tevron Announces New Real-World Customer Stories and ROI from the Trenches Blog Series

First topic covered: IT Process Automation

Nashua, NH. USA — August 11, 2014 — Tevron, the leader in IT performance and end to end monitoring & testing solutions, today announced that it has launched a new blog series covering real-world technical tips and examples. The series will illustrate how to boost application quality, and streamline and accelerate complex IT projects, such as new application deployments, infrastructure roll-outs, cloud migration and virtualization initiatives. Committed to customer success, Tevron blog series will make it easy to stay current and benefit by learning from the diverse experiences of other IT and QA peers in enterprise organizations.

Infrastructure roll-outs, cloud migration and new Websites top the list of this year's IT projects, and even when everything goes according to plan, these endeavors take up way too much time, keeping IT and QA pros from finalizing other tasks. "We spent a great deal of time interacting with our customers, and what we uncovered was a true eye-opener — many IT organizations are simply not automating enough. For example, one of our customers was able to automate Database roll-outs with Tevron's CitraTest -60,000 records in just 4 days." Instead of using a team of 6 working on this project phase for months, the job was completed in only 4 days. — Jay Labadini, Vice President of Tevron.

CitraTest is a software test automation solution that can be used for pre-production testing (functional, performance, regression testing, load testing) and to automate complex, tedious and time-consuming manual IT tasks. IT and QA professionals looking to streamline their processes and accelerate time to market are encouraged to check out the latest real-world customer stories and ROI from the trenches on the Tevron company blog.
